Dear Mr. Ashcroft:

As a Windows user and fan of Microsoft, I am writing to express my interest in the antitrust settlement between Microsoft and the US department of Justice.

First off, I believe Microsoft should be allowed to keep on innovating and growing at a rate similar to the last decade. They have set the standards for product and service growth, and should not be punished for that. They have also made computers more friendly and compatible for many users I know that were unable to navigate through older operating systems.

The recession has left its mark, and I believe that the technology sector should be left alone to do its business. I look forward to seeing Microsoft once again innovate change and I hope no further litigation is brought against them. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Sharon Klein
